Treasury Money Proposal

Directions: The United States Treasury has just requested proposals for new forms of money. Your group must propose, design, and present a new form of money. The Treasury committee members require that you justify the use of this form of money over our current forms (coins and bills) by listing at least three advantages and disadvantages of the proposed form. In addition, you should include a visual aid depicting your proposed form of money. You want to make your presentation as persuasive and creative as possible. You will be competing against other teams and your presentation needs to really shine.
